JOHNSON WILL USE CABINET TO CURB STATES' OFFICIALS

Aids Will Seek to Tighten Ties Between Governors and the White House.

He is expected to ask the governors and other state officials to give him a report on the status and needs of their states in the near future. The president, who is expected to make his decision within the next few days, will also ask them to keep him informed of any developments in their states that might affect national policy.

The plan is to establish a special Cabinet committee to deal with state officials, and to give the group the authority to make recommendations to the president on matters involving both state and federal interests.
