

Wasson, on Deathbed, Said Arabs Shot Him

JERUSALEM, May 24 (delayed) (UP).—American Consul General Thomas C. Wasson, fatally wounded by a sniper's bullet in a Jerusalem street, said on his deathbed, "It was the Arabs."

A spokesman for Hagannah, the Jewish Army, implied that Arabs also killed United States Navy Communications expert Herbert M. Walker. The spokesman said Hagannah troops drove off the men who shot Mr. Walker.

Mr. Wasson was wounded Saturday morning. He died early

Sunday. A physician attending him asked, "How do you feel?"

"I feel half-dead," Mr. Wasson said.

"Who shot you?" he was asked.

"It was the Arabs," Mr. Wasson said.

"Are you sure?" he was asked.

"Yes, I saw two Arabs," Mr. Warren said.
